<Company Name>

<Company Name>

Travel Agency Manager System
Supplementary Specification

Version 1.0

Revision History

Date	Version	Description	Author
22/03/2023	1.0		Bumbuc Ioana

Table of Contents

Supplementary Specification

1. Introduction

The Supplementary Specification is an important document that captures the system requirements that are not covered by the use cases of the use-case model. It provides a comprehensive overview of the system requirements that are critical to the success of the project. The document captures various requirements, such as legal and regulatory requirements, quality attributes, and other system requirements that include operating systems, compatibility requirements, and design constraints.

2. Non-functional Requirements

The non-functional requirements section covers critical aspects of the system such as availability, performance, security, testability, and usability. These requirements are important because they ensure that the system meets the needs of the users and performs optimally in all scenarios. The design constraints section outlines the specific limitations and guidelines that must be adhered to during the design and development of the system.

2.1 Availability

2.2 Performance

2.3 Security

2.4 Testability

2.5 Usability

3. Design Constraints

[This section needs to indicate any design constraints on the system being built. Design constraints represent design decisions that have been mandated and must be adhered to. Examples include software languages, software process requirements, prescribed use of developmental tools, architectural and design constraints, purchased components, class libraries, and so on.]